Where is Your Life Taking You?

"I don't want to go to Akron or San Francisco or St Louis," I heard the man in front of me tell the ticket counter agent at the airport. "And I don't want to fly on one of those huge jumbo jets. Where else are you going today? Buffalo? I heard it's too cold, I don't want to go there. But don't send me to Miami, either, because I don't like being hot. And I can't stand it when I have an aisle seat in the back of the plane, so don't put me there."

"Why don't we do it this way, sir?" interrupted the ticket agent. "Why don't you just tell me, instead, where you would like to go, what kind of aircraft you want to fly on, and which seat you prefer. Then I'll search in the computer and find the best match for you."

Makes perfect sense, doesn't it? If you want the Universe to arrange things exactly to your liking, it would be a much more efficient procedure to announce what you like, what you want, and what pleases you. And let the Universal Travel Agent arrange the trip for you.

Putting it into

Practice How to Make a List

"Are you kidding, Suzanne," you're probably thinking, "I make lists all day long." Well, I've got some suggestions for the lists you make to hand to your Universal Manager, the lists which make up your dreams and visions.

Make lists on paper (or in your head) of the things and circumstances you would like to have in your life. Don't waste your time on what you don't want; just list out what would make up your ideal future. Put descriptive, emotional words in your lists, embellishing with detail and feeling. Writing

Infinite Possibilities
by Mike Dooley

Explains in simple terms how thoughts actually become physical manifestations.

"new sports car" sounds kind of drab, doesn't it? While writing, "luscious red Saturn Sky convertible 5-speed with great pick-up and lots of power, velvety leather seats warm from the sun, and the latest in stereo sound systems filling the space with music" has a whole lot more life and feeling to it, doesn't it?

What's on your Love List? Is it something like, "Fun person to be in serious relationship with"? How about this: "Vibrant, funny, fun, loving, intelligent and creative mate to laugh uproariously with, indulge in passionate Sunday mornings in bed with, and explore all the wonders and mysteries of the world with."

As long as you're creating your life, why not create one that's intense, wonderful, and audacious? Give the Universe something to work with here. And enjoy every moment of imagining what you're creating, because getting there is (at least) half the fun.
