Free Your Mind

Those are famous words by the character Morpheus to Neo in "The Matrix." Essentially, Morpheus was telling his pupil that life is not what it seems, and the way out of the mental box he was in was to release old thought patterns.

We are all faced with this, as we seek to change our lives for the better... as we choose to create lives that we actually want to be living.

If you believed anything was possible, what would you dream? If you believed anything was possible...

Why don't you believe anything is possible? Why don't you believe that your life could change -- drastically, fantastically -- for the better? Maybe because you've been told, "This is how the world works."? Maybe because you've grown up in certain societal constricts that define what you believe and what you allow yourself to reach for?

There are billions of individuals on this planet, leading billions of different lives. No two people are leading exactly the same life. Isn't your life vastly different from someone living in a desert village in Somalia? How much in common does your life have with a person running a tourist fishing operation in Cancun, Mexico? What about someone living in a penthouse apartment in a 17th century building in the arts district in Paris?

The point is that collectively, we humans are living many different kinds of life experiences. And if someone else is living some aspect of a life you'd like to have, then they've just proven that it is possible. If the life you're living right now is less than pleasing to you, it's time to think outside the box that you're in and imagine a different life into existence.

What would you dream if you believed that anything was possible?

What AREN'T you dreaming because you don't BELIEVE?

More Vision Board stories...

"Hello Suzanne,
Your e-zine is always timely for me, thank you!
I have a couple of great stories to share...

5 years ago on New Year's Eve my husband and I began working on a vision board. It was a somewhat overwhelming process for us at the time, and we didn't have a lot of clarity about what we wanted.

We had, however, been trying to conceive for over a year, and in the center of the board we had a big happy baby photo, surrounded by lots of other baby pictures and photos of baby items. 1 week later we discovered I was pregnant!

We're currently looking for a home to buy. While on vacation, I was scrolling through listings online and found an interesting house to look at, so I called our agent and arranged to see it when we returned. While still on vacation, sitting in the glorious sunshine I quickly jotted down a list of the qualities I knew we wanted in a house. I was very clear at the time and the list came pouring out of me.

When we returned home and went to see the house, although it wasn't ultimately the right home for us, it did have about 90% of the qualities listed, and that process really helped me hone in even more clearly on what we want in a home.

Thank you again!" -- D.G., New York

I especially liked this reader's example of the house visualization and the recognition that it's all a process... sometimes what we think is the goal is actually just a step in becoming clearer and strengthening the vibration we're sending out.
